Graft Fight Delays Poor Relief Action

DAVEY'S FORCES BLOCK $40,000 FOR SENATORS

Appropriation Bill Sent To House Finance Committee, Where Delay Is Seen

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12 — (UP) — With renewal of hostilities between the Ohio senate and house in prospect because of the side-tracking in the house of the senate's $40,000 appropriation for its graft investigation, the poor relief program appeared to be in danger of being delayed today.

Immediate action on the $40,000 appropriation was blocked in the house late yesterday when the bill, already passed by the senate, was sent to the house finance committee.

Because the finance committee is dominated by the state administration, which had not given the senate graft investigation its blessing, it was believed that the appropriation might be killed or held in committee indefinitely.

Amendments Declined

Previous to the fight over the investigating committee appropriation, the house had voted against accepting the senate's amendments to the Huml poor relief financing bill, enacting a utility excise tax for poor relief and allocating the revenue from beverage, admissions, malt and wort taxes for relief purposes during 1938 and 1939.

The Rev. William A. Moore, 53, of East Fultonham, his wife, Mabel, 57, and their daughter, Dorothy, 29, were among seven persons injured in an auto collision near Zanesville, Tuesday afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Moore is a former pastor of the Methodist church of Williamsport, having been succeeded by the Rev. D. H. Householder.

Two autos and a school bus were involved in the three-way crash. Jack Darr, 17, of Zanesville, suffered a fractured skull. Others hurt were Mrs. C. F. Stine, 52, of White Cottage; Miss Sarah Baillie, 21, of East Fultonham, and Bernard Allen, 17, of Zanesville.

The driver of the school bus and 15 children escaped injury. The driver swerved the bus from the highway as machines driven by Allen and the Rev. Mr. Moore collided.

A police cruiser of the Zanesville department was damaged when it crashed into a bridge while being driven to the scene of the accident.

SENATORS FLAY VOUCHER DELAY AS DAVEY IDEA

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12—(UP)—The Ohio senate graft investigating committee fought for recognition as a legally-constituted inquisitorial body today after being subjected to what Chairman J. Ralph Siskner termed "another attempt on the part of the state administration to sabotage this investigation."

The committee vigorously opposed the refusal of Finance Director M. Ray Allison to release vouchers made out by the committee for witness fees. None of the vouchers given witnesses has been released to the state auditor for payment, the committee learned.

Allison said he was withholding payment temporarily.

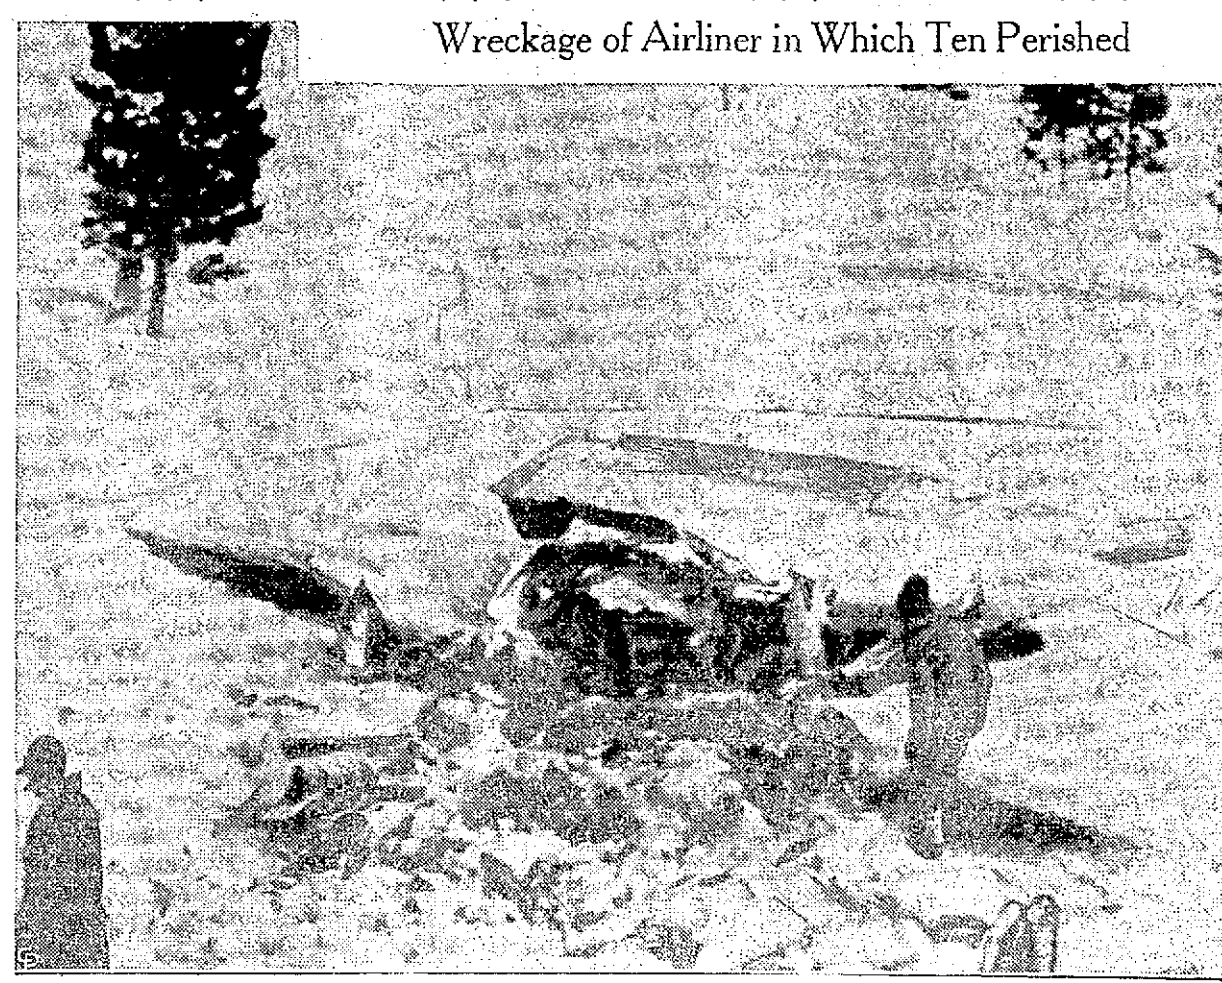

"I am inquiring into the basis on which the vouchers were issued," he said. "Inasmuch as the legality of the committee has been subjected to question, the vouchers are being temporarily held up. I am considering asking the attorney general for an opinion as to the legality of the committee."

FIREMEN ANSWER TWO CALLS DURING MORNING

Firemen were kept busy Wednesday, answering two calls in 15 minutes.

They were called to the home of George Hutchinson, Pearl street, at 10:15 o'clock to extinguish a roof fire caused by sparks from a chimney. Damage was estimated at $5.

A call was received at 10:30 o'clock on W. High street. A chimney "burning out" at the home of Mrs. Mary Kuhns resulted in a scare.

PHYSICIAN SAYS COURT JUSTICE NOT FAVORABLE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 — (UP) — Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo is less favorable today, his physician, Dr. J. P. Earnest, Jr., announced.

Earnest made his report after his morning visit to the apartment of the justice who is critically ill with heart disease after an attack of shingles and grippe.

Earnest's bulletin was brief. It said: "The condition of Justice Cardozo is not quite so good this morning."

The physician's bulletin was regarded as especially serious in view of his previous reports indicating that Cardozo's condition is critical and that the justice apparently is gradually losing ground in his fight against the complication of diseases.

Last night Earnest advised that the justice had failed to rally during the day as expected.

VIEWS TRADED AS F. D. MEETS BUSINESSMEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(UP)—President Roosevelt's exchange of views with five outstanding industrialists was expected by some authorities today to lead to further discussion of possible modification of some New Deal methods of dealing with economic problems.

The industrialists objected at the White House the rejection that methods chosen by the New Deal to attain specified objectives were not in all cases actually hastening accomplishment of desired goals.

That information, obtained from unusually well-informed and authoritative sources by the United Press, was accompanied by emphatic assurance that the administration would not change its objectives in any degree, despite possible modification in methods of achieving them.

President Roosevelt surprised the capital yesterday with a sudden conference with Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of General Motors Corporation, Ernest T. Weir, chairman of National Steel Corporation, M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, Lewis Brown, president of Johns-Manville company, and Coby M. Chester, chairman of General Foods corporation.

NOETHLICH TO MARION

E. L. Noethlich, of Columbus, who has been an engineer of the W.P.A. district including Ross, Pickaway, Fayette and Fairfield counties, has been transferred to the Marion area. He will be succeeded by C. C. Caldwell, of Marion, who has been employed in the district office in Columbus.

Bodies of Crash Victims Carried From Mountain

BOZEMAN, Mont., Jan. 12—(UP)—The bodies of 10 men who died in the Northwest airliner crash in Bridger canyon Monday, were held in a mortuary here today pending an inquest.

Wrapped in tarpaulins, the bodies were taken out of the rugged mountain area last night on sleds to Alfred Nikles' ranch, and brought here on trucks.

Belt buckles, watches and notebooks helped identify all 10 of the bodies.

Department of Commerce investigators prepared to investigate the crash which took the lives of Nick Manner, Seattle pilot, Co-Pilot Fred West, of Seattle, and the eight passengers: G. A. Anderson, Spokane; Douglas McKay, Winnipeg; I. E. Stevenson, Seattle; W. E. Borgonheimer, Basin, Mont.; A. L. Croonquist, Billings, Mont.; Walter Ton, St. Paul; Lloyd Levin, of Detroit, and Ted Anderson, St. Paul.

The crumpled plane lay in a narrow gorge between two high mountain ridges, the tail jammed up against the wing. The fuselage was crushed into a tangled pile, partly concealed by fresh snow.

Six Department of Commerce inspectors were assigned to the inquiry. They expected to complete a preliminary investigation by next Tuesday and then open public hearings into Northwest Airlines' first passenger losses in 11 years of operation.

One theory was that ice formed on the wings, cutting the plane's lifting power, but when the wreck was found there was no ice on the wings. It might have melted away, however, by the explosion of the gasoline tanks.

Others believed a sudden downdraft of air sucked the plane between the ridges, throwing the craft into a stall when the pilot tried to climb out.

Another theory was that the pilot lost his radio beam, strayed off his course into the mountains and crashed trying to make a landing.

WORST PART OF STORM TO MISS OHIO LAKE AREA

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12 — (UP) — Ohio will miss the worst part of a blizzard sweeping down from Saskatchewan, the U. S. weather bureau here predicted today.

With temperatures above freezing, the weather bureau predicted they would remain there during most of the day, with the possibility of a few added snow flurries.

However, ice gathering on wings of planes delayed service at Cleveland airport, where a Chicago-New York craft was grounded for two hours before resuming flight, and a Detroit plane scheduled to fly to Washington, was grounded for the rest of the day.

COMMERCIAL "BINGO" HIT BY E. LIVERPOOL MAYOR

EAST LIVERPOOL, Jan. 12—(UP)—Five places operating "bingo" games were closed by police today after Mayor Lee Copenhaver banned the corn-and-card game except for church and lodge benefits.

"We will not permit commercialized bingo," the mayor told police.

ELKS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY ON FEB. 8, 16 AND 18

On Feb. 8, Elks, their wives and lady friends, and widows of Elks will be guests at a banquet and entertainment in Memorial Hall. On Feb. 16, a class of candidates will be initiated at 4 p. m. in the lodge home with a stag party, banquet and entertainment following. Other lodges will be invited to participate in this event. On Feb. 18, festivities will be transferred again to Memorial hall for a formal-informal dance for Elks, members of their families and invited guests of members of the family.

The lodge was instituted in 1885.

CHINESE CLAIM TWO JAPANESE SHIPS WRECKED

HANKOW, Jan. 12—(UP)—The Chinese Central news agency reported today that Chinese airplanes had sunk two of four Japanese warships which sailed up the Yangtze from Wuhu, above Nanking. It was asserted that two Japanese munitions planes were bombed in Anhwei province, west of Nanking and that two raiding Japanese airplanes were shot down in Kwangsi province, west of Canton.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 12—(UP)—China's army leaders are staking everything they have on a defense of the Suchow area north of Nanking.

It was estimated here that 1,000,000 Chinese soldiers had been massed in the area to meet an attack by 500,000 Japanese moving on the area in four separate columns.

Foreign experts believed that if the Japanese smashed the Chinese army on that front reorganization of the Chinese army would be impossible and that the Japanese would be able to free scores of thousands of men to clean up guerrilla fighters, drive southward on the Peking-Hankow railroad to take Chengchow, and drive up the Yangtze to Hankow.

MUSICK, FAMED FLYER, AND SIX OF CREW LOST

No Radio Signals Received After Trouble Develops In Oil Line

MANY SHIPS ON WAY

Plane's Commander Rated Among Greatest

PAGO PAGO, Tutuila Island, Samoa, Jan. 12—(UP)—The ancient mine sweeper Avocet and its lone airplane searched the Pacific ocean south of here today for the giant Samoan Clipper, missing more than 18 hours with its crew of seven men.

Officers of the Avocet believed that all water where the clipper might have settled safely will have been covered by nightfall.

The flying boat was commanded by Capt. Edwin C. Musick, the greatest aerial trail blazer of modern times, and carried a crew of six other men. There were no passengers aboard. The plane had been on the last lap of a new route between the United States and New Zealand when it vanished.

At 5:37 a. m. Tuesday, Samoan time (19:37 p. m. EST) the clipper left Pago Pago. Two hours later, at 7:37 a. m., Capt. Musick reported that one of the four motors had developed an oil leak and he was turning back to Pago Pago. The clipper's radio signals continued for 50 more minutes, until 8:27 a. m., presumably during which time the plane was speeding back to the island, and then they ceased abruptly.

Oil Spots Vague

Reports that oil spots were sighted on the water 12 miles from the island were said to be "so vague as to not be admissible as clues."

The supposed spots were reported seen northwest of the island and authorities here agreed that the plane must have been forced down to the south.

Almost perfect weather prevailed in the district where the search was conducted. Visibility was good and the sea was calm.

It was believed that the plane had gone down not more than 30 miles from shore.

A plane from the U. S. Mine-sweeper Avocet conducted the search. The pilot was out yesterday afternoon, and searched until dark. At dawn he was away again.

Men at Pan American Airways base here frankly admitted that they feared the plane had sunk in the sea. They believed it might have exploded when Capt. Musick dumped the gasoline cargo to gain more speed or altitude.

CAPTAIN MUSICK RATED HIGH AS FLYING EXPERT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12—(UP)—Capt. Edwin C. Musick, flight commander of the missing Samoan Clipper, has had a long and distinguished aviation career.

Capt. Musick was born in St. Louis and moved to Los Angeles with his parents when he was nine. He was a high school student when he built his first airplane which crashed into a mud puddle from a height of nine feet on its maiden flight.

He first took up aviation seriously in 1913 when he enrolled in a commercial flying course. During the World War he was an instructor in the Army Air Corps.

Capt. Musick is one of the few pilots who is licensed to fly any kind of a plane. He was pilot for several airlines before he became a member of the Pan American staff in 1927. He holds 10 world's aviation records.

He is married, has no children, and lives quietly, seldom discussing his career of more than a quarter century in flying.

Figures In Shakeup of American Diplomats

SHAKEUP of American diplomatic representatives at principal European posts is regarded by some observers to signalize a stiffening of American foreign policy and a closer working understanding among the United States, Great Britain, and France. Figures in the diplomatic changes are shown in the map layout above. Joseph P. Kennedy goes to London as U. S. ambassador, replacing Robert W. Bingham. William C. Bullitt, now ambassador to France, will return to the U. S.

state department to replace Hugh Wilson, who will become ambassador to Germany. Joseph E. Davies, U. S. envoy to Russia, will relinquish that post to go to Rome as Italian ambassador. William Phillips, now at Rome, will be transferred to Paris. All this is according to latest available information, but is subject to change. The changes are said to be in conformity with the president's views.

Wrongly-Spelled Words Bring Killer's Arrest

WALSLENBURG, Colo., Jan. 12—(UP)—As a candy salesman, Everett Hughes was reliable enough that homicide could not delay him. Not even the playing of his wife. So he loaded his automobile with samples of his sweetstuffs, crammed his wife's body into the car's rear trunk, and went out as usual to call on his customers.

Between towns, after his day's work was done, found a likely place beside the road and buried his wife. She was a writer and poetess.

Then Hughes returned to his candy route. His couldn't disappoint his customers.

It was nine days ago that he shot his wife, after an argument about money and divorce. It was Hughes' own son who trapped him. Mrs. Hughes was the youth's step-mother.

The son began receiving letters, signed by his step-mother's name, but not written in her style. Mrs. Hughes was a professional writer. Her friends say she had sold another story to the Saturday Evening Post the last time they saw her.

So the father's son, Ralph Hughes, who lives in Denver and works as a draftsman for the U. S. department of interior, sent word to the sheriff that he had grave suspicions about his step-mother.

Found in Las Vegas The Everett Hughes lived in Pueblo. The sheriff caught Hughes in Las Vegas still plying his candy route. The husband confessed, and took the sheriff's men Philadelphia, then the nation's capital, and was the inventor of the blowtorch, and the first man to fuse platinum. The dramatization of his life brings dialers the story of America's first research chemist.

FEDERAL NEEDS MAY GO HIGHER THAN EXPECTED

Demands For Relief, National Defenses, Agriculture To Force Revision

ALTERED BUDGET SEEN

President Given Limited Item Veto Power

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(UP)—Growing belief that larger appropriations will be needed for national defense, agriculture and relief gave strong indications today that the federal government will be forced to spend at least $350,000,000 more in the next fiscal year than was forecast in the annual budget message.

President Roosevelt estimated last week that expenditures, exclusive of debt retirement, for the year ending June 30, 1939, would total $6,869,043,000.

Coincidentally, acknowledgment by agriculture department officials that additional funds almost certainly would be needed between now and June 30 for relief of needy farmers seem destined to upset all budget calculations for the current fiscal year.

President Given Power

The one counter-balancing factor in the budgetary picture was the passage by the house yesterday of a provision which would give the President limited "item veto" power over all supply measures. With the power to eliminate or reduce any item in any appropriation bill—with the exception of the veterans administration appropriation—Mr. Roosevelt will be able to make cuts to compensate for possible increases in spending for agriculture, relief and national defense.

The major threat to spending estimates for the 1939 fiscal year was the anticipated request by Mr. Roosevelt for additional appropriations for national defense. Congressional sources said they had received hints that the President might seek from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 above the $981,300,000 needed for national defense needs.

Some administration officials conceded that relief needs might exceed present estimates unless there is a sudden upturn in business activity and employment within the next few months. If improvement fails to materialize, relief experts estimated that not less than $200,000,000 of additional funds would be needed for relief. The budget forecast recovery and relief spending of $1,138,304,000 for 1939.

CLARK IS NAMED AS ADVISER FOR PENSIONS BOARD

Ferd M. Pickens, business administrator of the state division of aid for the aged, has appointed Fred Clark, S. Court street, to the Pickaway county old age pension civilian advisory board.

Clark replaces Tom Gilliland, Pinckney street, who reported that he was unable to serve on the board.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU- BY BOB BURNS

When baseball started to get a little ragged, they got Judge Landis in there to hold it together. The moving picture industry got Will Hays for the same reason, and I don't believe the government will ever balance their budget until they get someone in there to watch the details of the spending. My Uncle Skinny Flint would be a good man for the job. One time, down home, Reverend Tweedle got up in church and said "Brothers and sisters, there's a family south of town that has been left destitute by the floods. I suggest we send them a barrel of flour, a barrel of potatoes, a barrel of salt and a barrel of pepper."

Uncle Skinny jumped up and said "Hold on, Parson, you've got too darn much pepper."

Appeals Court Alters Graffis-Doering Ruling

Another chapter in the Graffis-Doering ditch case of Washington township was written Tuesday afternoon by the district Court of Appeals.

Under a new order of the court John M. Doering is given 10 days in which to make a substantial fill in a cut made in the ditch or pay a fine of $25 and costs. Failure to pay the fine and costs would mean commitment to the county jail.

The court came to Circleville to check compliance with a decree it had issued in December. Under this order Mr. Doering was given two weeks to repair the cut in the ditch and clear out debris. He had been found guilty of contempt for failure to comply with an order of the court given last Spring. Execution of a sentence that he be confined in the county jail until the work was completed was delayed to give him an opportunity to perform the work.

Judges View Ditch

Members of the Court of Appeals viewed the ditch before opening their session. Eyewitnesses showed Mr. Doering had made a fill, but it was alleged to have been made with frozen earth that washed out after a heavy rain. Mr. Doering told the court he had used no rock in making the fill.

Judge Russell McCurdy, who presided at the session, explained to Mr. Doering that a substantial fill with rock would end the case. "If we had had a shovel with us we could have done it while we were there," the judge said.

Since an effort was made to comply with the former order, the sentence formerly pronounced was revoked by the court.

John A. and Sarah Graffis, neighbors of Doering, charged that Doering cut the East bank of the watercourse on his lands along the boundary line, causing water to flow over the Graffis property.

Other members of the court of appeals are Peter J. Blosser, Chillicothe, and Roy J. Gillen, Wellston.

W.P.A. WORKER'S STORY ACCUSES SIX OFFICIALS

Amanda Man Tells Federal Jury He Gave $1,300 To General Superintendent

TESTIMONY CONTINUES

Many Payments To Other Men Discussed On Stand

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12 — (UP) — Testimony of a W.P.A. worker who alleged he paid about $800 of his earnings of $1,300 as a truck driver on the Mound City State Park project to Jerry Dennis, W.P.A. general superintendent, was to be resumed today in federal court.

The testimony of the worker — Virgil Menken, 29, Amanda — was cut off before cross examination by defense attorneys could be reached due to adjournment late yesterday. It followed closely that offered by another worker, Estes Clancy, 33, Chillicothe, who testified he paid about $1,000 to Roy Sampson, park superintendent.

The two officials are among the six persons accused of raising the classification of common laborers to that of truck-owner-drivers as part of an alleged conspiracy to defraud the government.

Other Defendants

Others on trial are Henry C. Wallenhorst, assistant field engineer; Harvey C. Cutright, general superintendent; William M. Stauderman, foreman and John Mossbarger, owner of a Clarksville, O., motor sales agency.

Menken testified he started on the $60,000 project in 1935 as a laborer at about 36 cents an hour and that in 1936 Dennis asked him if he would like to drive a truck.

Menken said he told Dennis he didn't own a truck but that the official promised to get him one. They obtained the vehicle from Mossbarger's agency, he alleged, and Dennis re-classified him as an owner-driver at a salary of about $1.35 an hour.

Menken said he retained 50 cents of the hourly wage and turned the remainder over to Dennis. He later turned the truck back to Mossbarger in February, 1937, he alleged. Oil and gas was obtained at Chillicothe and Clarksville, he alleged, and was charged to Dennis.

Clancy earlier testified Sampson in 1935 obtained a truck for him at Peebles, O. He said he and three other workers signed blank bills of sale at Sampson's home. Sampson, Clancy alleged, kept his bill of sale "locked up."

In reply to a question by Assistant District Attorney Ray M. O'Donnell, Clancy said "nothing was said about payments." Sampson, he said, paid $12 for the license plates.

More To Official

As an owner-driver, Clancy asserted, he received $74.25 every two weeks for about a year. He retained $27.50 each fortnight, he said, and turned over the remaining $46.75 to the official.

Sampson later offered to sell the truck to him for $240, Clancy said. In November, 1936, he borrowed $200 from a loan company in Chillicothe and obtained the truck. He paid $20 more out of his salary, he said, and the balance remained unpaid.

The loan company check, he alleged, was made out to Cutright at Sampson's request.

Garrett S. Claypool, defense attorney, read a stenographic report of a purported conversation between Orland Cooper of the Ohio Archaeological Society, sponsor of the project, and Clancy at the latter's home on March 23, 1937.

In the alleged conversation, Clancy charged Sampson removed a set of tires from a government truck and filed off the serial numbers. Clancy also referred to this in a letter to Sampson in which he said he was "out of a job on account of your and Jerry Dennis' crookedness."

Ruling Explained

Matthew L. Crabtree, Hillsboro, supervisor of a W.P.A. employment division, testified that Wallenhorst was present at district meetings of W.P.A. officials at which a ruling prohibiting workers from using trucks purchased after their placement on the W.P.A. rolls, was discussed.

Defense attorneys, earlier had testified the accused men had no knowledge of such a ruling until March, 1937.

O'Donnell said this ruling was put into effect when it was found workers were purchasing trucks in order to qualify as owner-drivers and thus "make money off the government."

Prices Not So Bad

In discussing the high cost of living of these and other days, Tuesday, it was decided that prices are mild now as compared with after the World War days in say about 1920. Hogs sold (live weight) then from $20 to $24 per hundred weight, almost three times the present price. And all other commodities moved in price at the same level.

Both Charlie Heffner and Scoot Roof were a part of the outfit, and of course, while they didn't, but any one of these three youngsters would quit eating for at least three days if it took that to get into a game. ## Muskingum's Reservoirs Ready for Flood Work

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12—Twelve dams completed and the other two nearly finished is the report given by Bryce Browning, secretary of the Muskingum Conservancy District, and he says that the water which can be held behind those dams would cover to a foot deep the counties of Coshocton, Guernsey, Tuscarawas, and Muskingum with enough left over to make plenty of puddles all the way down to Marietta.

Mr. Browning, a brother of Kenneth Browning, Scioto Farm resettlement official, declares that after building the dams they now have the problem of preserving them as flood control agencies. The threat against their efficiency is that silt will be carried into the reservoirs and drop there to occupy the space which should be available for water storage.

United States engineers have made surveys on other reservoirs so they have figures on how fast some of these pools fill with dirt. The Byllesby reservoir in Virginia silted 60 percent full in 25 years. Lake Austin in Texas became 90 percent land in 20 years. The O'Shaughnessy reservoir near Columbus, Ohio, lost 7 percent of its water-holding capacity in nine years.

The Muskingum District secretary declares this rapid silting is not going to occur in their new reservoirs because work already done by the Soil Conservation service will greatly reduce the amount of silt carried by rivers in the district. He says that 900 farmers in the Muskingum Valley now are operating 113,000 acres of land so that erosion on it has been greatly reduced.

The farmers are not just playing Santa Claus to help out the conservancy district because every measure they adopt to slow up erosion on their farms helps preserve the productivity of the soil. They keep the dirt at home to produce crops and the reservoirs remain open to store water in times when the cities along the rivers need protection from floods.

LEAGUE OFFERS TO HELP DAVEY HALT GRAFTERS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12 — (UP)

The Anti-Liquor League, incorporated last November, today addressed an open letter to Governor Davey, offering the league's assistance in an "honest" investigation of alleged "legal graft" in state departments.

In the letter, the league suggested a five-man investigating board, two to be named by the governor; a newspaperman and a business man to be named by the league; and a fifth member to be elected by the other four.

The league also offered to finance an investigation of state departments and officials under such a proposed board.

INDIANA'S FAMED GREYNA GREENS HIT BY JUDGES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 12— (UP)—Indiana's famed "Greyne Greens," featuring a 24-hour service as a haven for out-of-state couples seeking quick and easy marriage, were closed today by a ruling of the state supreme court.

The high tribunal, in a sharply worded decision, upheld the constitutionality of a law passed in 1852, providing that marriage permits be issued only by the "clerk of the county where the female resides."

It was a death blow to the prosperous marriage mills of Crown Point, Valparaiso, Auburn, South Bend and other northern and eastern Indiana county seat towns which have grossed thousands of dollars since neighboring states passed more stringent marriage laws.

The ruling held that every county clerk who issued a marriage license to a non-resident woman violated a law which "still is in effect." The court urged strict enforcement of the law, which makes the clerks liable for a judgment to be turned over to the state school fund. Adherence to the statute, the court said, will place marriage regulations on a higher plane.

The ruling made no mention of the thousands of previous marriages involving non-resident couples and made no attempt to determine their legal status.

ZEPS COMING
GERMAN dirigibles rise from their ashes like the fabled phoenix. Last May the Zeppelin Hindenburg fell in flames at Lakehurst, N. J. By next June there will be a duplicate of that ship shuttling across the Atlantic again, in greater safety because it will be filled with inert helium instead of inflammable hydrogen. There will be round trips at the rate of three a month until fall.
Americans have great admiration for Dr. Eckener, who has built so many of these craft. A second ship under construction in Germany is said to be intended for American interests. It would be fine if Dr. Eckener himself could come over and operate that, until navigators trained by him could take over.
We have had bad luck with lighter-than-air craft, but the hoodoo need not last forever. There is plenty of helium in Texas, and it might as well be used. Americans are greatly interested in such airships, showing enthusiasm for them wherever they appear. We shall see next summer whether they are ready to give practical expression to their interest.

LIVELY ASSETS, THOUGH FROZEN
UTAH'S mountains have always had their good and bad aspects. Among the former were the precious metals hidden within them, the irrigation water sources and the pleasant retreats from summer heat. On the other hand, they presented dangerous, often deadly, barriers to the early coast-bound pioneers. They have been a graveyard for modern aviators marking transcontinental air routes. Their minerals were an obstacle to good radio reception. In winter they were bleakly forbidding to all human enterprise.
Suddenly all that has changed. The mighty peaks of the Wasatch range are beckoning hundreds of thousands of tourists and are paying tremendous winter dividends to the state. It has all come about through the new enthusiasm for skiing. Utah mountains were found to possess the right kind of slopes, the needed abundance of snow and the invigorating sunshine that make winter sport delightful. So, too, with mountains in other states in the West, in the East, in New England.
The French and Swiss Alps and lesser peaks in Austria and Germany are still popular winter playgrounds, but Americans now know that they have excellent mountains of their own for this sort of fun. They are flocking to them in far greater numbers than ever went abroad for the same purpose.

World At A Glance

Hints continue to come from Brazil that revolt is smoldering under the recently created dictatorship of President Vargas.
It is a threat which worries state and navy departmental folk in Washington considerably.
Naturally a state of civil war in the big southern state would, of itself, be exceedingly annoying to the United States. That, however, by no means is the worst that might befall.
OVERSEAS' INTERUSION?
President Vargas denies that he is either a Fascist or a Nazi. Perhaps it is true that he is neither, but just a plain dictator, New World fashion.
Anyway, he certainly would not submit tamely to having an imported brand of autocracy supplant his own regime. And, if he does have a rebellion to deal with, it is sure to be supported by Germany, Italy, Japan and Portugal.
Portugal and Japan are innocents. To be sure, Brazil basically is Portuguese, but their piece of a homeland cannot be at all useful to any movement on this side of the Atlantic. Japanese colonists are numerous in the southern Brazilian area, but, as I previously have remarked, they are disliked by the rest of the population, quite as Orientals are looked on askance in North America. Besides, Japan is too far away and too fully occupied in the Far East to bother with what is going on in this hemisphere.
But Italy and Germany could be vastly troublesome.
NOT ASSIMILATED
Both are numerically strong in Brazil. And the Germans remain Germans, and the Italians remain Italians; they have not been much assimilated. Each nationality has its own newspapers and clubs and culture and sympathies.
The Germans have kept their settlements pretty well consolidated. There in Brazilian territory which is as German as Berlin, in sentiment. The Italians are more scattered. Still, they color national feeling, not so concentratedly as the Germans, but perhaps even more generally. And they are as Fascistic as the Germans are Nazistic.
Moreover, a Fascist-Nazi fellowship exists in Brazil.
The Germans would like to Germanize the republic and the Italians would like to Italianize it, but they think they could do it in partnership. Maybe they could.
HITLER, MUSSOLINI HOPES?
I do not mean to say that Mussolini and Hitler expect to divide the country and annex it, but I do believe that they hope, between them, to become politically and economically predominant there.
After which they doubtless would quarrel between themselves, but that's beside the point at present.
Well, President Vargas doesn't serve Mussolini's purpose, or Hitler's.
Dictator as he may be, he's a BRAZILIAN dictator. Call it

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

APPOINTEE WILL BE WESTERN
WASHINGTON—You can chalk it up as fairly certain that the man who fills Justice Sutherland's shoes will come from the West—even if it is only as far west as Chicago. This is because the two Supreme Court resignations during Roosevelt's Administration were Western, from Wyoming (Van Devanter) and from Utah (Sutherland).
Irony of fate is that had they not fought Roosevelt's Supreme Court bill, either Senator Wheeler of Montana or Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming could have walked away with Sutherland's job. They would have fitted into the picture perfectly.
Getting down to specific persons, the President would like to reward Stanley Reed, the Solicitor General, but it is more likely that he will wait to appoint him to McReynolds' place when the Tennessee resigns. Reed comes from Kentucky. Incidentally, he has established a remarkable record of winning Supreme Court decisions, having scored his fifteenth consecutive victory for the Government last week.

DONALD RICHBERG
One man to keep an eye on particularly is Donald Richberg, one-time partner of General Johnson in flapping the Blue Eagle's wings, later his successor.
Don Richberg's greatest ambition is to sit on the Supreme Court. Although he has alienated his old Railway Brotherhood friends, for whom he was once counsel, plus a good many other people, he has not alienated the President.
In fact, Richberg had a hand in writing Roosevelt's last message to Congress (the other ghost-writer having been Judge Sam Rosenman of New York).

ENEMY MONEY
Richberg comes from Chicago and fits into the Western scheme of appointments, but in New Deal circles there is one large black mark against his name. He has become a thriving legal lobbyist, having accepted fees from a conglomerate of anti-New Deal agencies. One of these was the automobile group which attempted to settle the anti-trust action taken against them in Milwaukee.

But Richberg's most amazing client is a gentleman named Trujillo, who is President of the Dominican Republic and the bloodiest dictator in the Western Hemisphere. Richberg inherited this client from Joseph E. Davies when Davies married the breakfast food heiress, Mrs. Post Hutton, and became Ambassador to Russia.

NOTE—Davies already has received a fee of $480,000 from Trujillo for suspending amortization payments on the Dominican debt.

DIET AND HEALTH

Giving Tests of Blood for General Diagnosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
A READER asks about blood tests, especially the blood sedimentation test. These are rather technical matters, but they will be explained as best we can.
The blood changes in many ways in "rath and disease. The blood cells change in number and appearance. They can very easily be counted under the microscope. A certain concentration is always present in health both of the red and of the white cells. The reds are lowered in anemia, and the whites are raised in the presence of infections like pneumonia and appendicitis. The cells can also be studied under the microscope to note changes in form, and this is a valuable procedure, because they are frequently deformed by toxins.
But besides the cells, there is the serum of the blood, and this is affected by all the things that affect all the cells of the body, because it washes all of them ceaselessly, dissolving out their waste products and immune products. Thus we have many serum tests to determine nearly any of the infectious diseases, such as the Widal test for typhoid fever.

Dr. Clending

Blood Sedimentation Test
The blood sedimentation test is dependent on the relationship between the blood cells and the serum. When the coagulation of the blood is prevented by adding citrate or oxalate solutions, and a test tube of such blood is left standing, the cells fall to the bottom at a very definite rate of speed, so that at the end of about an hour, in the case of a normal person, the cells have settled into the bottom fourth-fifths of the tube, leaving the upper fifth clear serum.
The cells settle more rapidly in the blood of women than of men, and very much more rapidly in the blood of a woman carrying a child. In tuberculosis they also settle more rapidly, and the more severe the case the more rapidly they settle, so in this condition the test has found its most use.
A new test of somewhat similar sort is called the Wintman test, and is based on the coagulation of the serum of the blood, when heated. In general, it distinguishes between infectious with exudation and infections in the stage of healing or fibrosis. Thus in the presence of fever, the test may rule out or confirm the suspicion that a hidden accumulation of pus is present. In many ways the Wintman test and the blood sedimentation test are similar.

Answer: I have recommended the injection treatment for hernia in proper cases, but I do not think it would be safe to advise by correspondence which are proper cases. The function of this column is to call attention to reliable methods of treatment, but judgment as to where and when they are used should be left to the practicing physician.

CHAPTER 35
A YEAR PASSED—two, and our country went into the war. More need now for planting, for harvesting. Our ranch assumed, all at once, a national importance. The patriotism of the men who tilled the soil was side by side with that of the men who fought in the trenches.
No time to write! But how I lived! Wrestling from the rich earth all that it would give. Putting potatoes, cabbages, corn—sowing every spare acre in wheat. Aunt Mary dried and canned our fruits and vegetables. Mimi gathered together groups of the mountain women and taught them to conserve.
As for my father, it was marvelous to see him. Strong in body and in spirit, he tramped over the hills. He found remote habitations and took to them good cheer and the gospel. He took also his own idealistic belief that men should fight for great causes. And he brought in many recruits.
Another year of it, and then the Armistice. There was time now to take stock of ourselves, to find that out of our dynamic energies we had won experience. We could go on with security. The future held for us no fears.
The letters which came from overseas told us that Bernice and Lionel were still staying on in Paris. Lionel's stories were attracting much attention. It was, indeed, not long before he wrote the book which brought him fame. Andy had been wounded, and had been decorated for distinguished service. Olga's husband, although he had a German name, had fought on the side of the Allies.
We had paid Olga what we owed her. She had not wanted to take it, but we had insisted. Since then we had heard nothing from her.
In June, following the Armistice, my wife and I rode one day from our morning's work, and found Aunt Mary in a flutter.
"A lady telephoned," she said. "She and her husband are coming to dinner."
Dinner meant to us, at that time, our midday meal. We had, during the war, sacrificed some of our formalities, and had adopted the mountain customs.
We often had unexpected guests. So Mimi took the news lightly. "Who is it?"
Aunt Mary's eyes danced. She was anticipating the sensation her words would make. "It is your step-grandmother."

"Step-grandmother?" Mimi's tone was incredulous.
"Yes. And Doris has stewed chicken and dumplings."
I knew Doris's stewed chicken dinners. Served country style. All on one platter. Delicious. Primitive.
"She'd better add a salad," Mimi directed, then hurried to her room. "I've got to dress," she said, over her shoulder.
I followed her. "Don't dress, my dear."
"Why not?"
"Because you are simply stunning as you are."
"Tuning," echoed small Stephen who had accompanied me. Stephen had a tawny mane like his mother's. Otherwise he resembled me.
"You are two of a kind," Mimi told us, saying the same things, and standing there with your hands in your pockets."
Stephen's pockets were in knickerbockers of orange linen which matched his mane. "I like my hands in them," was his somewhat smug response, "and I like to say the same things as Daddy."
Mimi laughed. "Well, run along now, and you and Daddy wash your hands and faces. I've got to fix my hair."
Then, as she reached the door, she said, "I wonder why Olga is coming, Jerry?"
"Perhaps, to show us her husband."
"She seems able to annex husbands easily," coolly, "doesn't she?"
She could not even then, you see, be quite fair to "the Ogre."
When later she joined us in the living room, she was glowing with her quick toilette. She had put on a fresh silk shirt, and wore a tie of her favorite blue, but she was still in her riding clothes.
A huge limousine lumbered, presently, up the hill. The roads were, at that time, rough, and the chauffeur's face wore a look of extreme exasperation.
As he came at last to a stop before our modest domicile, the look of exasperation gave way to one of ill-concealed contempt. He touched his hat in a perfunctory manner, and got down to open the door of the car.
But I was before him, and was saying with all my heart, "Olga, how good of you to come!"
Her florid countenance was set in more mature lines than when I

Eastern Star Observes Its 40th Anniversary

Charter Members,
Past Officers
Honored

Tuesday evening Circleville chapter No. 90 of the Order of the Eastern Star commemorated the 40th anniversary of its institution. Crown chapter, of Columbus, which had instituted the Circleville chapter, was the honored guest at the meeting held at 7:30 o'clock in the Masonic Temple.

Miss Marie L. Hamilton, junior past grand matron, and C. C. Chappellear, past grand patron, were presented and escorted to seats in the East. Florence Alexander, grand representative to Tennessee and Fairy Gingers, associate grand conductress, of Columbus, were presented and escorted East. Mrs. Mary M. Boggs, the first worthy matron of Circleville chapter, was then presented and the officers of Crown Chapter were welcomed.

During the business session, a report on the Masonic Temple building association was given by P. E. Barnhill. The regular meeting was then closed.

Following the chapter work, an interesting program was offered under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lawrence Johnson. She first introduced Miss Hamilton who gave the words of welcome to Crown chapter and other visitors. C. C. Chappellear was introduced and gave a brief resume of the institution and history of Circleville chapter to the present time. Mrs. Boggs was mentioned at this time as one of the charter members and the first worthy matron. Theodore Long, deceased was the first worthy patron. Five out of the first 17 officers are now living. Twenty-four were received in the membership of the chapter at its institution.

A playlet, "The Garden," was then presented. Mrs. C. D. Bennett, Marilyn Blair and Beverly Kline taking the character parts. The music, interspersed during the reading of the play, was sung by Mrs. Frank Kline, Jr., with Mrs. Devin Leist playing the accompaniment. A candle lighting ceremony followed, each past matron giving her name and the year she served as she lighted a candle. Mrs. E. S. Shane presented each one a red rose. During the ceremony Mrs. Kline sang softly, "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses." Mrs. Dwight Steele lighted candles for the past worthy matrons who were absent, giving their names. Crown chapter members were then honored and presented roses, as were the past patrons of Circleville chapter. Four charter members, Miss Virginia Marion, worthy matron, and the grand officers, who were present at the meeting were given recognition.

At the close of the ceremony the chapter room was an impressive sight, candles blazing for past matrons on the platform at the East, with members of Crown chapter lined in front, and the past matrons of Circleville chapter, holding burning candles and their gift roses in line at the opposite side of the room. This concluding the evening's program, the guests were invited to the red room where a buffet lunch was served. The buffet table, centered with a large

BASEBALL RACE OPENS APRIL 18 IN WASHINGTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—(UP)—The 1938 major league baseball campaign will get under way April 18 when President Roosevelt throws out the first ball at Washington in the inaugural game between the Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics.

The only other game scheduled for the 18th is between the New York Yankees and the Red Sox in Boston. The four other American league teams and all National clubs will play first on April 19.

Detroit will open at Chicago and St. Louis at Cleveland and the American, while the opening day National league schedule sends Boston to New York, Brooklyn to Philadelphia, Chicago to Cincinnati and Pittsburgh to St. Louis.

The 19th will be Patriots day in Boston and the Yankees and Red Sox will play a double header while the Senators and Athletics meet in their second game at Washington. The usual 154-game schedule will end Oct. 2 with the annual all-star game scheduled for July 6 at Cincinnati.

The schedules were adopted at a meeting attended by League Presidents Ford Frick and William Harridge yesterday, but they will not be made public until club owners rally them, which generally is a mere formality.

DONKEY COURT CONTESTS PLANNED NEXT MONDAY

Donkey basketball will be offered to Circleville fans next Monday when Coach Jack Landrum of the high school puts on an afternoon and evening show. The donkeys, all trained for their particular duties, have been touring Ohio and other states in recent weeks.

The show is scheduled at the Athletic Club. An afternoon performance for school children is planned at 4 o'clock. The evening show will get under way at 8:15.

The Glitt grocery, second place team, meets the Coca Colas in Wednesday evening's feature. A clean sweep would put the Glitts in a tie for the top. An interesting match is expected.

That Stiff Hat May Be Joe Louis' Undoing Not the Hat, of Course, but What It Means When Hungry Guys Are Fed They Quit Fighting

Joe Louis has gone to Lafayetteville, N. Y., for the first stages of his training to meet Nathan Mann in Madison Square Garden, Feb. 21.

Mann is a fair to middling heavyweight who had eight fights last year, won seven of them and got a draw in the other, so he's battling 1,000 in the Cauliflower league. I think he has a chance to beat Louis. It doesn't sound like good sense to say so, but it is a hunch that the facts seem unable to overcome. Mann has a good chance to beat Louis, it's my hunch, because Louis will be in there helping him to do it.

During the Christmas holidays I saw a picture of Joe Louis in his Detroit cafe with his wife, Marva. Joe appeared indolent, as usual and fat. He has a wicked way with fried chicken and pork chops. But the thing that stuck out all over the picture, as far as I was concerned, was the stiff hat.

A stiff hat can say a pile of words about its wearer. It represents a peak in prosperity, and to a boy who not so long ago looked down the long road ahead of him and saw only years of back-breaking toil and trouble, the sudden riches that the hat represents must seem to be a vision of heaven realized.

Has He Lost It? Joe said he weighed 268 pounds when he was here for a few days before starting to camp, and that he felt fine and wouldn't have any trouble taking off the fat that easy living, rich food and a lot of wonderful sleep (and can he sleep!) have padded him here and there. Probably he won't have any trouble, either. But it seems to me that something Joe had inside when he was fighting his way up through the amateurs has gone, and it will be very hard for him to recapture.

We have seen many, many hungry boys fight their way in from the cold streets only to lose the line edge of their ambition when filled with food and warmed by fires and friends. Joe isn't cold and hungry any more. He has everything that life denied him during his early youth, and is enjoying it as only a fellow naturally inclined to laziness could. As he goes along, fighting will become more of a bore and burden to him. Louis never did have a great deal of aggressiveness to lose.

I think it was Nale Lewis, wise old Chicago fight veteran, who said that a champion never is as good as he was on the day he won the championship. There is a pile of truth in that. You remember the brown tiger that Jack Dempsey was at Toledo when he all but annihilated complacent Jess Willard? And not so long after, a matter of months, in the first defense of his title, Dempsey came within a whisker of losing to Bill Brennan in Madison Square Garden. The Man Mauler went through 12 terrible rounds that night before he finally managed to beat Bill down with rabbit punches.

In Dempsey's case it was the stiff hat, too, and the life that went with the top and tails, of course. Old Jack crawled from under a box car to fight his way into the land of music, soft lights, milk and honey. A few months of it almost wrecked the career of the greatest natural fighter of the age.

That's why I think Nathan Mann has a good chance to beat Joe Louis when they meet in the Garden next month.

FOUR HARNESS DRIVERS FACE STATE PENALTIES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12 — (UP)—Four harness horse drivers had been suspended by the United Trotting association here today until illegal winnings received while racing out of class were returned.

The suspended drivers were James Wordie, Urbana; Harry J. Pierstoff, Toledo; R. K. McNamara, Delaware; and L. C. Brinker, Hicksville.

Groveport Youth Pacing Capital Team

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12—Paced by a preacher, Capital university's surprising cakors top Ohio college basketball standings sharing with Bowling Green university the honor of being the only undefeated Ohio quintets. Sophomore Paul Weaver from Groveport, by averaging 16 points per contest, is largely responsible for the fine record of Coach Bernhart's basketballers.

Weaver was a member of the fine Groveport high school team, which bowed to Waterloo's Wonderers in the state Class B finals in 1934. He entered Capital a year ago to follow his twin brothers who are taking courses preparatory to entering the Methodist ministry. All three Weavers, though still in school, are serving as student pastors for small parishes near Columbus, Paul's parish being located near Westerville, he studies and plays basketball during the week and then preaches on Sundays.

In two Ohio Conference games against Denison and Ohio Northern, Weaver chalked up 21 points, while at Heidelberg he was limited to six points, having had two guards assigned to him.

Although Weaver is the chief point getter, Capital's quintet is well-balanced. When the opposition concentrates on stopping Weaver, other sharpshooters are on hand to take up the scoring burden. Ray Hoischenman, New Albany, second high scorer in the conference last year, is always dangerous as are the other starting members: Paul Sealings, Holland, Ind.; George Freeman, Columbus; and Dale Helmich, Elma, O.

Capital plays the strong Kenyon College team Saturday night in Columbus.

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED FOR LEAGUE FRAY

Neither Team Defeated In Competition For Loop Honors

SCORERS TO COMPETE

Anderson And Gregg Get Extra Attention

The Pickaway county league championship may be at stake Friday evening when Pickaway township's defending Pirates meet the Ashville Cowboys on the Harrison township court.

Neither team has lost a game during the season. A defeat for either means that the other will probably go into the tournament with a clean slate. Ashville has turned back Scioto, one of the strongest teams of the county, and has gained a victory over New Holland, always a difficult crew to crack. If the Harrison township lads win in a Pickaway, they must still meet Mühlenberg, Salt-creek, Monroe, Washington, and Jackson.

Pickaway has yet to meet Scioto, the game to be played on the Commercial Point court, among other contests.

The Friday evening fray, which is expected to draw a capacity crowd, may develop into a battle of individuals with Creighton Anderson and Junior Gregg, speedy forwards, being among the best shots in the county. Coach Al Kauber, of Ashville, expects to assign Reese to stop Anderson. Just who Coach Karl Burger will put on Gregg is not certain, but Jimmy Boggs may get the role.

Other Friday games include Williamsport at Atlanta, Walnut at Jackson, New Holland at Washington, and Mühlenberg at Salt-creek. The Scioto-Monroe game was played at an earlier date.

Circleville high school travels Friday evening, visiting Waverly. Varsity and reserve teams will play.

SCIOTO QUINTET GAINS ONE-POINT EDGE OVER DEAF

Scioto township eagars gained a 26-25 margin over the Ohio School for the Deaf, Tuesday evening, in a thrilling contest played at Commercial Point. The work of Virgil Beavers, speedy Scioto forward who tallied 14 points, proved the margin of victory for the Commercial Point outfit.

In the preliminaries the Scioto boys gained a 17-13 edge over the Deaf boys. A Circleville team of girls lost a 3-1 decision to the Commercial Point lassies.

Graft Fight Delays Poor Relief Action

DAVEY'S FORCES BLOCK $40,000 FOR SENATORS

Appropriation Bill Sent To House Finance Committee, Where Delay Is Seen

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12 — (UP) — With renewal of hostilities between the Ohio senate and house in prospect because of the side-tracking in the house of the senate's $40,000 appropriation for its graft investigation, the poor relief program appeared to be in danger of being delayed today.

Immediate action on the $40,000 appropriation was blocked in the house late yesterday when the bill, already passed by the senate, was sent to the house finance committee.

Because the finance committee is dominated by the state administration, which had not given the senate graft investigation its blessing, it was believed that the appropriation might be killed or held in committee indefinitely.

Amendments Declined

Previous to the fight over the investigating committee appropriation, the house had voted against accepting the senate's amendments to the Huml poor relief financing bill, enacting a utility excise tax for poor relief and allocating the revenue from beverage, admissions, malt and wort taxes for relief purposes during 1938 and 1939.

Harold Bogroff, Lancaster, paid $5 and costs on a charge of having insufficient lights. He was arrested by Mr. Heise.

FIREMEN WARN OF LINE TROUBLE IN SOUTHD

Due to line trouble in the fire alarm circuit covering the south-end of the city, any resident desiring to summon the department should call by telephone.

Trouble in the circuit developed Tuesday afternoon, causing the bell to ring several times. Workmen were busy Wednesday trying to find the break in the lines.

The alarm system for the northend of the city is satisfactory.

PASTOR, FAMILY HURT IN WRECK

Rev. W. A. Moore, Wife And Daughter Injured As Three Cars Hit

The Rev. William A. Moore, 53, of East Fultonham, his wife, Mabel, 57, and their daughter, Dorothy, 29, were among seven persons injured in an auto collision near Zanesville, Tuesday afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Moore is a former pastor of the Methodist church of Williamsport, having been succeeded by the Rev. D. H. Householder.

Two autos and a school bus were involved in the three-way crash. Jack Darr, 17, of Zanesville, suffered a fractured skull. Others hurt were Mrs. C. F. Stine, 52, of White Cottage; Miss Sarah Baillie, 21, of East Fultonham, and Bernard Allen, 17, of Zanesville.

The driver of the school bus and 15 children escaped injury. The driver swerved the bus from the highway as machines driven by Allen and the Rev. Mr. Moore collided.

A police cruiser of the Zanesville department was damaged when it crashed into a bridge while being driven to the scene of the accident.

SENATORS FLAY VOUCHER DELAY AS DAVEY IDEA

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12—(UP)—The Ohio senate graft investigating committee fought for recognition as a legally-constituted inquisitorial body today after being subjected to what Chairman J. Ralph Seidner termed "another attempt on the part of the state administration to sabotage this investigation."

The committee vigorously opposed the refusal of Finance Director M. Ray Allison to release vouchers made out by the committee for witness fees. None of the vouchers given witnesses has been released to the state auditor for payment, the committee learned.

Allison said he was withholding payment temporarily.

"I am inquiring into the basis on which the vouchers were issued," he said. "Inasmuch as the legality of the committee has been subjected to question, the vouchers are being temporarily held up. I am considering asking the attorney general for an opinion as to the legality of the committee."

FIREMEN ANSWER TWO CALLS DURING MORNING

Firemen were kept busy Wednesday, answering two calls in 15 minutes.

They were called to the home of George Hutchison, Pearl street, at 10:15 o'clock to extinguish a roof fire caused by sparks from a chimney. Damage was estimated at $5.

A call was received at 10:30 o'clock on W. High street. A chimney "burning out" at the home of Mrs. Mary Kuhns resulted in a scare.

BRITAIN POINTS TOWARD MIGHTY AIRPLANE FLEET

LONDON, Jan. 12—(UP)—Within one year Great Britain expects to have a fleet of 10,000 military airplanes, it was asserted today on high authority — more than equal to the combined air strength of Italy, Germany and Japan on the basis of available estimates.

Not only that, but within a year the government expects the Royal Air force to be backed up by a manufacturing organization capable of turning out bombing and fighting planes at a rate never before equalled, even in the World War.

This information was given today as the army in the second big shake-up within six weeks named six officers of the younger school to key posts in the high command at the expense of older men.

NOETHLICH TO MARION

E. L. Noethlich, of Columbus, who has been area engineer of the W.P.A. district including Ross, Pickaway, Fayette and Fairfield counties, has been transferred to the Marion area. He will be succeeded by C. C. Caldwell, of Marion, who has been employed in the district office in Columbus.

PHYSICIAN SAYS COURT JUSTICE NOT FAVORABLE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 — (UP) — Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo is less favorable today, his physician, Dr. J. P. Earnest, Jr., announced.

Earnest made his report after his morning visit to the apartment of the justice who is critically ill with heart disease after an attack of shingles and grippe.

Earnest's bulletin was brief. It said: "The condition of Justice Cardozo is not quite so good this morning."

The physician's bulletin was regarded as especially serious in view of his previous reports indicating that Cardozo's condition is critical and that the justice apparently is gradually losing ground in his fight against the complication of diseases.

Last night Earnest advised that the justice had failed to rally during the day as expected.

VIEWS TRADED AS F. D. MEETS BUSINESSMEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(UP)—President Roosevelt's exchange of views with five outstanding industrialists was expected by some authorities today to lead to further discussion of possible modification of some New Deal methods of dealing with economic problems.

The industrialists raised at the White House the objection that methods chosen by the New Deal to attain specified objectives were not in all cases actually hastening accomplishment of desired goals.

That information, obtained from unusually well-informed and authoritative sources by the United Press, was accompanied by an emphatic assurance that the administration would not change its objectives in any degree, despite possible modification in methods of achieving them.

President Roosevelt surprised the capital yesterday with a sudden conference with Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of General Motors Corporation, Ernest T. Weir, chairman of National Steel Corporation, M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, Lewis Brown, president of Johns-Manville company, and Coly M. Chester, chairman of General Foods corporation.

FAYETTE COUNTY FAIR TO BE CONDUCTED SEPT. 13-16

WASHINGTON, C. H., Jan. 12 — Fayette county fair dates have been set for Sept. 13, 14, 15 and 16. Several new buildings costing thousands of dollars are to be built on the fairgrounds recently leased by the Fayette County Agricultural society for 20 years.

Bodies of Crash Victims Carried From Mountain

BOZEMAN, Mont., Jan. 12—(UP)—The bodies of 10 men who died in the Northwest airliner crash in Bridger canyon Monday, were held in a mortuary here today pending an inquest.

Wrapped in tarpaulins, the bodies were taken out of the rugged mountain area last night on sleds to Alfred Nikles' ranch, and brought here on trucks.

Belt buckles, watches and notebooks helped identify all 10 of the bodies.

Department of Commerce investigators prepared to investigate the crash which took the lives of Nick Mamer, Seattle pilot, Co-Pilot Fred West, of Seattle, and the eight passengers: G. A. Anderson, Spokane; Douglas McKay, Winnipeg; I. E. Stevenson, Seattle; W. E. Borgenheimer, Basin, Mont.; A. L. Croonquist, Billings, Mont.; Walter Ton, St. Paul; Lloyd Levin, of Detroit, and Ted Anderson, St. Paul.

The crumpled plane lay in a narrow gorge between two high mountain ridges, the tail jammed up against the wing. The fuselage was crushed into a tangled pile, partly concealed by fresh snow.

Six Department of Commerce inspectors were assigned to the inquiry. They expected to complete a preliminary investigation by next Tuesday and then open public hearings into Northwest airlines' first passenger losses in 11 years of operation.

One theory was that ice formed on the wings, cutting the plane's lifting power, but when the wreck was found there was no ice on the wings. It might have melted away, however, by the explosion of the gasoline tanks.

Others believed a sudden downdraft of air sucked the plane between the ridges, throwing the craft into a stall when the pilot tried to climb out.

Another theory was that the pilot lost his radio beam, strayed off his course into the mountains and crashed trying to make a landing.

WORST PART OF STORM TO MISS OHIO LAKE AREA

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12 — (UP) — Ohio will miss the worst part of a blizzard sweeping down from Saskatchewan, the U. S. weather bureau here predicted today.

With temperatures above freezing, the weather bureau predicted they would remain there during most of the day, with the possibility of a few added snow flurries.

However, ice gathering on wings of planes delayed service at Cleveland airport, where a Chicago-New York craft was grounded for two hours before resuming flight, and a Detroit plane scheduled to fly to Washington, was grounded for the rest of the day.

ELKS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY ON FEB. 8, 16 AND 18

Three dates in February, during which month the Circleville lodge of Elks will observe its golden anniversary, were chosen Tuesday evening by the jubilee committee for various parts of the celebration. Max C. Seyfert, Jr., is general chairman of the anniversary committee.

On Feb. 8, Elks, their wives and lady friends, and widows of Elks will be guests at a banquet and entertainment in Memorial Hall. On Feb. 16, a class of candidates will be initiated at 4 p. m. in the lodge home with a stag party, banquet and entertainment following. Other Lodges will be invited to participate in this event. On Feb. 18, festivities will be transferred again to Memorial hall for a formal-informal dance for Elks, members of their families and invited guests of members of the family.

The lodge was instituted in 1888.

CHINESE CLAIM TWO JAPANESE SHIPS WRECKED

HANKOW, Jan. 12—(UP)—The Chinese Central news agency reported today that Chinese airplanes had sunk two of four Japanese warships which sailed up the Yangtze from Wuhu, above Nanking. It was asserted that two Japanese munitions planes were bombed in Anhwei province, west of Nanking and that two raiding Japanese airplanes were shot down in Kwangsi province, west of Canton.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 12—(UP)—China's army leaders are staking everything they have on a defense of the Suchow area north of Nanking.

It was estimated here that 1,000,000 Chinese soldiers had been massed in the area to meet an attack by 500,000 Japanese moving on the area in four separate columns.

Foreign experts believed that if the Japanese smashed the Chinese army on that front reorganization of the Chinese army would be impossible and that the Japanese would be able to free scores of thousands of men to clean up guerilla fighters, drive southward on the Peiping-Hankow railroad to take Chengchow, and drive up the Yangtze to Hankow.

MUSICK, FAMED FLYER, AND SIX OF CREW LOST

No Radio Signals Received After Trouble Develops In Oil Line

MANY SHIPS ON WAY

Plane's Commander Rated Among Greatest

PAGO PAGO, Tutuila Island, Samoa, Jan. 12—(UP)—The ancient mine sweeper Avocet and its lone airplane searched the Pacific ocean south of here today for the giant Samoan Clipper, missing more than 18 hours with its crew of seven men.

Officers of the Avocet believed that all water where the clipper might have settled safely will have been covered by nightfall.

The flying boat was commanded by Capt. Edwin C. Musick, the greatest aerial trail blazer of modern times, and carried a crew of six other men. There were no passengers aboard. The plane had been on the last lap of a new route between the United States and New Zealand when it vanished.

At 5:37 a. m. Tuesday, Samoan time (12:37 p. m. EST) the clipper left Pago Pago. Two hours later, at 7:37 a. m., Capt. Musick reported that one of the four motors had developed an oil leak and he was turning back to Pago Pago. The clipper's radio signals continued for 50 more minutes, until 8:27 a. m., presumably during which time the plane was speeding back to the island, and then they ceased abruptly.

Oil Spots Vague

Reports that oil spots were sighted on the water 12 miles from the island were said to be "so vague as to not be admissible as clues."

The supposed spots were reported seen northwest of the island and authorities here agreed that the plane must have been forced down to the south.

Almost perfect weather prevailed in the district where the search was conducted. Visibility was good and the sea was calm.

It was believed that the plane had gone down not more than 30 miles from shore.

A plane from the U. S. Mine-sweeper Avocet conducted the search. The pilot was out yesterday afternoon, and searched until dark. At dawn he was away again.

Men at Pan American Airways base here frankly admitted that they feared the plane had sunk in the sea. They believed it might have exploded when Capt. Musick dumped the gasoline cargo to gain more speed or altitude.

CAPTAIN MUSICK RATED HIGH AS FLYING EXPERT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12—(UP)—Capt. Edwin C. Musick, flight commander of the missing Samoan Clipper, has had a long and distinguished aviation career.

Capt. Musick was born in St. Louis and moved to Los Angeles with his parents when he was nine. He was a high school student when he built his first airplane which crashed into a mud puddle from a height of nine feet on its maiden flight.

He first took up aviation seriously in 1913 when he enrolled in a commercial flying course. During the World War he was an instructor in the Army Air Corps.

Capt. Musick is one of the few pilots who is licensed to fly any kind of a plane. He was pilot for several airlines before he became a member of the Pan American staff in 1927. He holds 10 world's aviation records.

He is married, has no children, and lives quietly, seldom discussing his career of more than a quarter century in flying.

W.P.A. WORKER'S STORY ACCUSES SIX OFFICIALS

Amanda Man Tells Federal Jury He Gave $1,300 To General Superintendent

TESTIMONY CONTINUES

Many Payments To Other Men Discussed On Stand

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12 — (UP) — Testimony of a W.P.A. worker who alleged he paid about $800 of his earnings of $1,300 as a truck driver on the Mound City State Park project to Jerry Dennis, W.P.A. general superintendent, was to be resumed today in federal court.

The testimony of the worker — Virgil Menken, 29, Amanda — was cut off before cross examination by defense attorneys could be reached due to adjournment late yesterday. It followed closely that offered by another worker, Estes Clancy, 33, Chillicothe, who testified he paid about $1,000 to Roy Sampson, park superintendent.

The two officials are among the six persons accused of raising the classification of common laborers to that of truck-owner-drivers as part of an alleged conspiracy to defraud the government.

Other Defendants

Others on trial are Henry C. Wallenhorst, assistant field engineer; Harvey C. Cutright, general superintendent; William M. Stauderman, foreman and John Mossbarger, owner of a Clarksburg, O., motor sales agency.

Menken testified he started on the $60,000 project in 1935 as a laborer at about 36 cents an hour and that in 1936 Dennis asked him if he would like to drive a truck.

Menken said he told Dennis he didn't own a truck but that the official promised to get him one. They obtained the vehicle from Mossbarger's agency, he alleged, and Dennis re-classified him as an owner-driver at a salary of about $135 an hour.

Menken said he retained 50 cents of the hourly wage and turned the remainder over to Dennis. He later turned the truck back to Mossbarger in February, 1937, he alleged. Oil and gas was obtained at Chillicothe and Frankfort, he alleged, and was charged to Dennis.

Clancy earlier testified Sampson in 1935 obtained a truck for him at Peebles, O. He said he and three other workers signed blank bills of sale at Sampson's home. Sampson, Clancy alleged, kept his bill of sale "locked up."

In reply to a question by Assistant District Attorney Ray M. O'Donnell, Clancy said "nothing was said about payments." Sampson, he said, paid $12 for the license plates.

More To Official

As an owner-driver, Clancy asserted, he received $74.25 every two weeks for about a year. He retained $27.50 each fortnight, he said, and turned over the remaining $46.75 to the official.

Sampson later offered to sell the truck to him for $240, Clancy said. In November, 1936, he borrowed $200 from a loan company in Chillicothe and obtained the truck. He paid $20 more out of his salary, he said, and the balance remained unpaid.

The loan company check, he alleged, was made out to Cutright at Sampson's request.

Garrett S. Claypool, defense attorney, read a stenographic report of a purported conversation between Orland Cooper of the Ohio Archaeological Society, sponsor of the project, and Clancy at the latter's home on March 23, 1937.

In the alleged conversation, Clancy charged Sampson removed a set of tires from a government truck and filed off the serial numbers. Clancy also referred to this in a letter to Sampson in which he said he was "out of a job on account of your and Jerry Dennis' crookedness."

Ruling Explained

Matthew L. Crabtree, Hillsboro, supervisor of a W.P.A. employment division, testified that Wallenhorst was present at district meetings of W.P.A. officials at which a ruling prohibiting workers from using trucks purchased after their placement on the W.P.A. rolls, was discussed.

Defense attorneys earlier had testified the accused men had no knowledge of such a ruling until March, 1937.

O'Donnell said this ruling was put into effect when it was found workers were purchasing trucks in order to qualify as owner-drivers and thus "make money off the government."

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Angel," which opens tonight at the Cliftona theatre brings to the screen a new director-star combination for which the screen has been waiting for a long time. The delicate, ethereal beauty of Marlene Dietrich and the light, whimsical directorial touch of Ernst Lubitsch make a compound that brings out a high variety of film entertainment.

The production is handsome and lavish, the acting of Miss Dietrich, Herbert Marshall and Melvyn Douglas all that anyone could ask, and the work of the supporting cast is splendid. It's "swell Lubitsch" and it's "swell Dietrich." Herbert Marshall plays the part of an absorbed diplomat, who gives all his time and attention to political problems to the exclusion of his wife, Marlene Dietrich, who resents his lack of attention to her. She finally leaves her home to make a quiet trip to Paris, in search of some adventure to relieve the drabness of her usual life. In Paris she meets Melvyn Douglas; the two fall in love.

AT THE GRAND

A great majority of the population of Santa Monica, Calif., found an opportunity a few weeks ago to visit the half-mile long pier that projects out into the Pacific Ocean.

The attraction was the Cosmopolitan picturization of Peter B. Kyne's novel, "The Go Getter." It will open at the Grand theatre Thursday. Scenes for the lively comedy-drama were being photographed on the open ocean off the end of the pier.

George Brent and Anita Louise, who are co-starred in the production, together with that lovable character actor Charles Winninger portrays Kyne's famous fiction character, Cappy Ricks.

A dramatic yet amusing sequence—in which Brent and Miss Louise supposedly have jumped off a China-bound steamer because Cappy Ricks urgently wants them back in San Francisco—is a highlight of the production.

Muskingum's Reservoirs Ready for Flood Work

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12—Twelve dams completed and the other two nearly finished is the report given by Bryce Browning, secretary of the Muskingum Conservancy District, and he says that the water which can be held behind those dams would cover to a foot deep the counties of Coshocton, Guernsey, Tuscarawas, and Muskingum with enough left over to make plenty of puddles all the way down to Marietta.

Mr. Browning, a brother of Kenneth Browning, Scioto Farm resettlement official, declares that after building the dams they now have the problem of preserving them as flood control agencies. The threat against their efficiency is that silt will be carried into the reservoirs and drop there to occupy the space which should be available for water storage.

United States engineers have made surveys on other reservoirs so they have figures on how fast some of these pools fill with dirt. The Byllesby reservoir in Virginia silted 60 percent full in 25 years. Lake Austin in Texas became 90 percent land in 20 years. The O'Shaughnessy reservoir near Columbus, Ohio, lost 7 percent of its water-holding capacity in nine years.

The Muskingum District secretary declares this rapid silting is not going to occur in their new reservoirs because work already done by the Soil Conservation service will greatly reduce the amount of silt carried by rivers in the district. He says that 900 farmers in the Muskingum Valley now are operating 113,000 acres of land so that erosion on it has been greatly reduced.

The farmers are not just playing Santa Claus to help out the conservancy district because every measure they adopt to slow up erosion on their farms helps preserve the productivity of the soil. They keep the dirt at home to produce crops and the reservoirs remain open to store water in times when the cities along the rivers need protection from floods.

LEAGUE OFFERS TO HELP DAVEY HALT GRAFTERS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12 — (UP)

The Anti-Liquor League, incorporated last November, today addressed an open letter to Governor Davey, offering the league's assistance in an "honest" investigation of alleged "legal graft" in state departments.

In the letter, the league suggested a five-man investigating board, two to be named by the governor; a newspaperman and a business man to be named by the league, and a fifth member to be elected by the other four.

The league also offered to finance an investigation of state departments and officials under such a proposed board.

INDIANA'S FAMED GREYNA GREENS HIT BY JUDGES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 12 — (UP)—Indiana's famed "Gretna Greens," featuring a 24-hour service as a haven for out-of-state couples seeking quick and easy marriage, were closed today by a ruling of the state supreme court.

The high tribunal, in a sharply worded decision, upheld the constitutionality of a law passed in 1852, providing that marriage permits be issued only by the "clerk of the county where the female resides."

It was a death blow to the prosperous marriage mills of Crown Point, Valparaiso, Auburn, South Bend and other northern and eastern Indiana county seat towns which have grossed thousands of dollars since neighboring states passed more stringent marriage laws.

The ruling held that every county clerk who issued a marriage license to a non-resident woman violated a law which "still is in effect." The court urged strict enforcement of the law, which makes the clerks liable for a judgment to be turned over to the state school fund. Adherence to the statute, the court said, will place marriage regulations on a higher plane.

The ruling made no mention of the thousands of previous marriages involving non-resident couples and made no attempt to determine their legal status.

Eastern Star Observes Its 40th Anniversary

Charter Members,
Past Officers
Honored

Tuesday evening Circleville chapter No. 90 of the Order of the Eastern Star commemorated the 40th anniversary of its institution. Crown chapter, of Columbus, which had instituted the Circleville chapter, was the honored guest at the meeting held at 7:30 o'clock in the Masonic Temple.

Miss Marie L. Hamilton, junior past grand matron, and C. C. Chapplear, past grand patron, were presented and escorted to seats in the East. Florence Alexander, grand representative to Tennessee and Fairy Gingery, associate grand conductress, of Columbus, were presented and escorted East. Mrs. Mary M. Boggs, the first worthy matron of Circleville chapter, was then presented and the officers of Crown Chapter were welcomed.

During the business session, a report on the Masonic Temple building association was given by F. E. Barnhill. The regular meeting was then closed.

Following the chapter work, an interesting program was offered under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lawrence Johnson. She first introduced Miss Hamilton who gave the words of welcome to Crown chapter and other visitors. C. C. Chapplear was introduced and gave a brief resume of the institution and history of Circleville chapter to the present time. Mrs. Boggs was mentioned at this time as one of the charter members and the first worthy matron. Theodore Long, deceased was the first worthy patron. Five out of the first 17 officers are now living. Twenty-four were received in the membership of the chapter at its institution.

A playlet, "The Garden," was then presented. Mrs. C. D. Bennett, Marilyn Blair and Beverly Kline taking the character parts. The music, interspersed during the reading of the play, was sung by Mrs. Frank Kline, Jr., with Mrs. Ervin Leist playing the accompaniment. A candle lighting ceremony followed, each past matron giving her name and the year she served as she lighted a candle. Mrs. E. S. Shane presented each one a red rose. During the ceremony Mrs. Kline sang softly, "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses." Mrs. Dwight Steele lighted candles for the past worthy matrons who were absent, giving their names. Crown chapter members were then honored and presented roses, as were the past patrons of Circleville chapter. Four charter members, Miss Virginia Marion, worthy matron, and the grand officers, who were present at the meeting were given recognition.

At the close of the ceremony the chapter room was an impressive sight, candles blazing for past matrons on the platform at the East, with members of Crown chapter lined in front, and the past matrons of Circleville chapter, holding burning candles and their gift roses in line at the opposite side of the room. This concluding the evening's program, the guests were invited to the red room where a buffet lunch was served. The buffet table, centered with a large

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WARNING DISREGARDED
SUCCESSIVE passes followed by a suit bid scream out loud the fact that there is practically nothing but a bit of suit length in your hand. For your partner then to make a bid is to go counter to the logic of the situation, as he should know by then that your hand cannot possibly make a good dummy for him.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

Here North, East and South passed and West started the bidding with 1-Diamond. North passed again and East bid 2-Diamonds. When West now called 3-Diamonds, North put in a bid of 3-Hearts, figuring East's response would now probably be 3-No Trumps.

Having only a possible stopper in the heart suit, East was afraid to take the contract into 3-No Trumps, so passed. North had accomplished what he had hoped for until South decided to take North out of the 3-Hearts by bidding 4-Clubs. North knew his hand would be absolutely worthless to South at that contract, so was obliged to go 4-Hearts, which was of course doubled.

The defenders cashed two diamonds, two hearts, one spade and one club, so that South's mistake was rather costly, whereas, had he allowed the 3-Heart bid to stand, the opponents announced they would not have doubled.
